

Bishop Provost recalls Ad Limina visit 2019

According to standard practice, all bishops of the Catholic Church are required to visit the Holy See and submit a report on the work of the Church in their respective dioceses. Because of the transition between the Pontificates of Pope Benedict XVI and Pope Francis, the ad limina visit for the bishops of the United States was delayed to seven years. Hence, from the beginning of November 2019 thru February of 2020, all bishops in our nation will be visiting the Holy Father, the tombs of the Apostles, and the offices of the Vatican which oversee the work of the Church throughout the world.

A highpoint of the ad limina visit is the celebration of Masses at the four major basilicas in Rome, St. Peter's where St. Peter is buried, St. Paul outside the Walls where St. Paul is buried, St. Mary Major, which is the oldest church in the West dedicated to the Blessed Virgin Mary, and St. John Lateran dedicated to St. John the Baptist and the Cathedral Church of the Diocese of Rome. Our seminarians from Lake Charles joined the approximately 25 bishops in Region V, which contains all dioceses in the States of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky. Praying together at the tombs of the apostles was a deeply moving experience for all of us. Here the successors of the apostles, that is the bishops, prayed together for the church, their dioceses, and the flocks entrusted to their care.

Another very special moment was the visit with the Holy Father. In 2012, my last ad limina visit, we met with Pope Benedict XVI as a Province, fewer than 10 bishops, for about an hour. On this occasion with Pope Francis, two regions of bishops met with the Holy Father, approximately 40 bishops, for almost three hours. In spite of the size of the group, Pope Francis invited conversation and questions. The entire experience was exceptional in many ways. There was humor, frank discussion, and an informative sharing of opinion on diverse topics.

Earlier in the year, the diocese had presented its ad limina report, an almost 100 page document detailing the pastoral and administrative efforts of the Diocese of Lake Charles. This gave an opportunity for the various departments of the Holy See to study and read what was going on here in the local Church. There was evidence that they had done just that.

Every day of the ad limina was set aside for visits to the various congregations and commissions that make up the Vatican or Holy See. The Holy See has an office for education, doctrine, laity and family life, clergy, religious, liturgy, culture, protection of minors and youth, evangelization, foreign affairs, and bishops, to name the most prominent. Here the visiting bishops could voice their own concerns in these areas and receive input from the heads of these congregations and commissions. The entire experience was most enlightening.

The typical visit to a congregation usually followed this format. First, a bishop, serving as spokesman, introduced the group and gave some sort of introduction. Then, the head of the congregation or diocesan office introduced his personnel and gave an overview of their work, which included their concerns. At this point, the floor was opened for questions from the visiting bishops and discussion ensued. These sessions usually lasted from one to two hours.

Many Catholics do not know that the Holy See or the Vatican, as it is commonly called, is a sovereign state, with its own government and laws. Thus, this Vatican City State maintains diplomatic relations with over 170 ambassadors, called nuncios, throughout the world. Therefore, the Secretary of State conducts the foreign policy affairs of the Vatican City State. Our meeting with the Cardinal Secretary of State was most interesting because we heard of concerns in areas that are mentioned in daily news sources.

Also, many Catholics do not know that the Holy See has a special commission to address the protection of minors and vulnerable adults. Here the issues of human trafficking, slavery, and the response of the Church to these problems are reviewed with guidance given to the Pope on matters that need action.

Of course, this subject of protection for our children is of utmost concern. Throughout the weeklong stay in Rome, we were in discussion on ways to address the problem. There has been much progress made. There is much left to be done. I am confident we, both the Church in general and the Diocese in particular, are moving ahead. What steps have been taken already must be strengthened. For example, the commitment of this Diocese of Lake Charles to cooperate fully with the civil authorities and create a safe environment for our youth and young adults is first and foremost. I think we have shown consistently through concrete actions our willingness to work with law enforcement and government officials. We have made this pledge to our people, and we are committed to this transparency.

In summary, our last act as a group of bishops on the ad limina was to celebrate Mass at the tomb of St. Paul. The imposing Basilica of St. Paul outside the Walls is the resting place of the Apostle to the Gentiles. In this secular world I felt that it was an appropriate place for us, who are the successors of the apostles, to visit. St. Paul confronted a pagan world himself. Through his writing and through him to bring his listeners to Jesus Christ. Joining with my brother bishops, praying at the tomb, celebrating Holy Mass, along with three young men of Lake Charles who will be ordained to the Holy Priesthood next June, brought to completion this visit to the Holy City of Rome. Stained by the blood of martyrs, Rome has witnessed two thousand years of Church history. We find in Rome the tombs of countless saints who witnessed to Jesus Christ. She has seen the up-and-down movement of the Gospel's preaching, but she has always moved forward. She cannot help but do this. She is the burial place of the Prince of the Apostles. She is the seat of unity for those who seek to bring the message of Christ into the 21st Century. I remembered the intentions of the faithful of the Diocese at each holy place, and I thank God for the opportunity to have made this visit once again. In this way, each and every one was with me on holy ground.

Father Poerio celebrates 60th Anniversary of priesthood

By Pamela Seal

The Reverend John A. Poerio enjoys telling the story of officiating at his mother's wedding.

"My father died when I was 11 years old. My mother, who was about 34 at that time, did not remarry until she was 65. I officiated at her wedding. I like to say, 'I married my momma,'" he chuckled.

Today Father Poerio celebrates the 60th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, December 20, 1959, and said he does not have any regrets.

"It's been great getting to know a lot of different families over the years," he said. "Officiating the sacraments for so many has always been a source of joy and strength for me."

Being an instrument of God's mercy through the Sacrament of Reconciliation has also been significant in his vocation.

"Hearing confessions and having people open up and trust me enough to share their pain and sorrows, being able to help relieve people from the heavy load of their sins has been a blessing," he said.

A native of Chicago Heights, Ill., Father Poerio, the third of four children, grew up surrounded by the influence of two uncles who were priests and an aunt who was a religious sister. His only sister would also join a religious order.

"God put priests in our family, and I was part of that plan. Bishops down South were recruiting young men from up north in the 1950s. My uncle Mike, who was a priest for the Lafayette diocese at the time, invited me to enter the seminary," explaining how he ended up in Louisiana. "I never really think about what else I would have done," he said.

Father Poerio was ordained in Rome in 1959 after seminary studies at Immaculata in Lafayette, Notre Dame in New Orleans, and Gregorian University in Rome. He celebrated his first Solemn Mass on Dec. 21, 1959, in St. Peter's Basilica, and his Mass of Thanksgiving in St. Agnes Catholic Church in Chicago Heights in July of 1960.

While in Rome, Father Poerio recalls being one of several seminarians who stood vigil in St. Peter's Basilica after Pope Pius XII died.

Father Poerio's first assignment was at St. Margaret of Scotland Parish in Lake Charles as associate pastor. Other assignments included St. John Cathedral in Lafayette, Our Lady of Perpetual Help in New Iberia, St. Raphael Parish in Iowa, St. Lawrence Parish in Raymond, Sacred Heart Parish in Oakdale, St. John Vianney Parish in Bell City, and St. Mary of the Lake Parish in Big Lake before retiring in 2003. He also held positions in the diocesan Tribunal.

A resident at Villa Maria

Retirement Center for the past six years, Father Poerio has slowed down a little, but he hasn't stopped completely.

"I don't travel as much to other parishes as I did when I first retired, but I do help out at Christ the King Parish and Our Lady Queen of Heaven as well as celebrate Mass here at Villa Maria for the residents," he said. "I always try to be available if someone needs a blessing, or anointing of the sick, or helping hear confessions."

One of 11 retired priests in the Diocese of Lake Charles, Father Poerio had hoped he would have time to paint the 14 Stations of the Cross. "I managed to paint the first station, but it's the only one I've painted so far. I stay so busy." That special work of art is framed and hangs in his studio apartment.

He said he was sort of the class artist back in Illinois.

"I used to sketch in school. During the second World War, I was in the sixth grade. My teacher asked me to draw Christmas cards for soldiers. Another teacher gave me a quarter for every Christmas card I would draw for her," he recalls. "A quarter at that time was pretty good."

Father Poerio's advice to newly ordained priests: prayer is key to your vocation.

"There are so many demands on priests. I have always remained hopeful and faithful in my vocation by spending at least one hour a day in prayer, even if it is split up throughout my day. Making time to read the breviary gives me strength," he said.

A reception in Father Poerio's honor will be held today, Dec. 20, at 2 p.m. in Villa Maria Retirement Center, 3905 Kingston St. No gifts, please, as requested by Father Poerio.

The Reverend John A. Poerio celebrates Mass on Dec. 3 at Christ the King Catholic Church. One of 11 retired priests in the Diocese of Lake Charles, Father Poerio celebrates the 60th anniversary of his ordination today, Dec. 20. He was ordained in 1959 in Rome.

BISHOP PROVOST'S CHRISTMAS MESSAGE

Christmas is a Divine paradox. Someone so small and so humbly born came to achieve something so great, the Redemption of the world. "A child is born to us, a Son is given to us." Often in the face of God's perfection we are struck by the unimportance of our lives. And yet we are redeemed by God who empties Himself out as a baby, lying in a manger, born of a humble Virgin. We are not worthy of so great a gift, but we are never too small or that insignificant to be loved by God. He shows us that love at Christmas. May the birth of the Savior ignite our faith. Come, let us adore Him. The Catholic faithful join me, Bishop Provost, in offering you our heartfelt prayers for a Blessed Christmas.

Saint Charles Center events

MOSS BLUFF - Spring events at Saint Charles Center will begin on Tuesday, January 14, with Sr. Diane Depwe presenting "Honey Communications Skills 101" from 6 to 9 p.m. in Tabor Retreat House.

Two other January events are scheduled with Deacon Brian Soileau speaking on Catholics and the Bible on Tuesday, January 21, from 6 to 9 p.m. and Father Whitney Miller on Tuesday, January 28, from 6 to 9 p.m. presenting "Lead, Kindly Light: Meditations, Poems & Prayers of St. John Henry Newman."

To register for events at the Center call (337) 855-1232 or go to stcharlescenter.com. The suggested donation is $20.00 per person for each January event. Deadlines to register are Friday, January 10, for Sr. Diane Depwe presentation; Friday, January 17, for Deacon Soileau's evening; and Friday, January 24, for Father Miller's presentation. Sr. Diane will explore the differences in how males and females communicate and process information.

The Evening of Reflection with Deacon Soileau is intended to provide those attending with a deeper knowledge of the role of the Catholic Church in establishing the Canon of Scripture as well as dispelling the myths and untruths concerning the Church and the Bible.

Father Miller will speak on the Anglican clergyman and leader of the Oxford Movement who eventually undertook the spiritual journey of religious conversion to the Roman Catholic Church. Newman was a preeminent master of the English language and his writings have inspired countless souls throughout the years toward a deeper walk of faith and commitment to Christ.

The next publication of the Catholic Calendar will be on Friday, January 24, 2020.

The offices of the Diocese of Lake Charles will close at the end of business today, Dec. 20, and remain closed through Wednesday, Jan. 1, in celebration of the birth of Our Lord Jesus Christ.

They will reopen at 8:30 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 2, for regular office hours - 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily.
